DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

a. Claims 1, 15, 17, 19, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 16, 18, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brouwer et al. (U.S. Patent 6,279,124) in view of Haley et al. (U.S. Patent 6,154,876).

Regarding claims 1, 15, 17, 19:

Brouwer discloses a system, a computer program, a method for automated testing of software, the system comprising a system server component comprising, a test bucket for storing sets of test data (Col. 1, Lines 53-67), a job receiver process (Col. 1, Lines 53-67), for accepting test requests from a user (Col. 1, Lines 53-67), each test request comprising an identifier for selecting test data from the test bucket (Col. 1, Lines 53-67), a resource process and resource pool for managing system resource data to indicate resources available for software testing on a set of client computer systems (Col. 4, Lines 43-62), a job execution process for creating test execution script data based on the test data identified in a test request (Col. 3, Lines 53-67), wherein the job execution process receives the test request from the job receiver process and receives input from the resource (Col. 1-2, Lines 53-15), dynamically creates the test execution script based upon the resource pool indicating the availability of resources required for the execution of the test on one or more of the set of client computer systems, and initiates testing by forwarding the test execution script data to the appropriate one or more of the set of client computer systems (Col. 3, Lines 53-65), and the system server component further comprising a means for accepting and storing test results from the set of client computer systems (Col. 3, Lines 15-41).

Brouwer does not disclose a process indicating resources available for software testing, Haley disclose a process indicating resources available for software testing (Col. 10, Lines 59-38, Col. 26, Lines 3-22), in order to detect programming error in the system (Col. 1, Lines 29-33).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Brouwer to have a process indicating resources available for software testing taught by Haley in order to detect programming error in the system (Col. 1, Lines 29-33).

Brouwer discloses a listener and execution process for the execution of the script to generate test report (fig. 3, unit 48), a job queue dispatcher process (Col. 8,

Art Unit: 2863

Lines 25-39), completion testing by the request (Col. 8, Lines 25-39), server database storage (fig. 1, unit 28, 12), use of TCP/IP socket for the test (Col. 3, Lines 23-35), generate test script file for the test (Col. 1-2, Lines 54-14), result store in the server (fig. 1, unit 28, 26), client configuration file pre-testing and post-testing (fig. 1, unit 28, 26), refresh subsystem responsive (fig. 1, unit 20, 22), providing a graphical user interface (Col. 2-3, Lines 66-15), parsing ASCII format (Col. 30-31, Lines 57-8).

b. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brouwer et al. (U.S. Patent 6,279,124) and Haley et al. (U.S. Patent 6,154,876) and further in view of Eric Knorr (PC bible 2nd edition).

The Brouwer and Haley combination disclose a method including the subject matter discussed above except the use of DOS system; Knorr discloses the use of DOS system in order to have an essential set of programs and utilities that enables the computer to run (page 904, 945-951, 953-956, 965-967).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify Brouwer and Haley to have the use of DOS system taught by Knorr in order to have an essential set of programs and utilities that enables the computer to run.
